About Pink Paw Program:

The Pink Paw Program is a registered charity that was first established in 2014. Our Program is designed to help educate and support dog owners who have adopted a rescue companion or in the unfortunate case of looking to surrender their pet.

We provide free dog training support to anyone referred to us by aligned rescue groups, vets and organisations. We work with these clients to help dogs stay within their forever home.

We understand how tough it can be dealing with short and long-term behavioural issues in our domestic pets. Often these “issues” are natural instincts that require a deeper understanding. We educate dog owners on canine behaviour and the underlying psychology that requires training, patience and support. Applying our positive methods help reduce the number of dogs being unnecessarily surrendered.

Millions of dogs are euthanised each year globally, usually due to unwanted behaviour. Our biggest mission is to put a stop to surrendered dogs and prevent death row world-wide.

What we can offer:

We offer private virtual training and coaching, phone and email support, access to training videos, online courses, and eBooks. Our services are at no cost to you or your referred clients.

Once our behavioural team receive a referral from the partnered organisations, we will be in touch with the client to arrange an introductory phone call.

By filling out the above details and returning the form via our email, you agree and consent to a collaborative partnership with Pink Paw Program.

We look forward to working together and creating a better future for our animals.
